As our new Animation Director (f/m/d) at Ubisoft Düsseldorf, you will shape the overall cinematic and gameplay animation vision for the game, in line with the creative vision, and will rally your animators behind this vision. You give them the guidance and context they need to grasp the overall style you're trying to achieve, and then allow them the freedom to experiment and iterate.

What you will do:

- Set animation direction for gameplay and cinematics
- Communicate expectations of the artistic vision to the team
- Feedback and validate the work carried out by the various teams to ensure that quality objectives are met
- Ensure the project's direction is followed by working in close collaboration with the Producer, Technical Director (TD) and the programming team
- Help plan the work in collaboration with the production team who oversees planning
- Direct the actors during gameplay mocap sessions to follow the artistic vision and optimize the production of the animators.

What you bring:

You are a motivated and team-oriented Director, dedicated to the craft of Animation. You find the team's achievements to be motivating and can supervise a team of like-minded people by providing feedback and support whenever needed. Your experience from directing a team allows you to solve problems and organize an effective workflow. We want people like you, who will be instrumental in driving our studios to success.

- Expert knowledge & passion for gameplay & technical animation on AAA video game productions with a proven track record of shipped titles
- Professional experience in supervising/directing a team
- Ability to make a vision accessible and ensure that it is well understood by all.
- Professional experience working with State Machines and Blendtrees
- Experience working in Node-based (Animation) systems, such as Blueprints (Unreal) and Mecanim (Unity)
- An understanding of the technologies available to be used in animation like IK, FK, Motion

Matching and Procedural, and the pros and cons of their use.

- Excellent understanding of 3D workflows and most common software platforms (Motion builder, Maya, etc.)
- Ability to learn and understand the game engine animation system's strength and weaknesses
- Attention to detail
